That Good Morning Text

*"As the clock strikes six my phone would always ding."
Good morning Da, I could hear your voice sing.
You would call my phone and of course I didn't pick up.
You text back quickly and say "Da don't make me nut up."
We would talk for 5 or 10 minutes before ya had to clock in
You are my son, my brother, and most of all my best friend.
I don't know how I'm going to do this without you,
Cause your heart was so true.
But one thing is for sure that we all will never forget you.
So go ahead son and fly high cause
This isn't a long-term loss, but simply a temporary goodbye.

The McDuffie and Parker Families

To my Son

I was happy and excited from the first flutter. Words can't explain the love I felt and now words can't explain the pain that's in my heart. The day before we talked about you getting married, living right, your love for God and how you wanted to be in that number. Lost I feel, but the comfort that God sends knowing that his spirit will be with you. The love and joy you shown everyone and the protection you vowed to your family will be forever missed. Myself, your dad, Deauntee, Kendriana, Chad, your grandmother, grandfathers, Veira, your cousins, aunts, uncles, and loved ones will cherish all the moments you have left. You were a joy and the smile and hugs you gave the last day I saw you will forever comfort me. Go in peace. We will be ok. One last time. I love you from infinity to Infinity.
